| 257 | Portrait of Gen. George Nelson MacySarah Wendell Macy-Kelley
Born Sept. 24, 1837. Died Feb. 13, 1875. Commissioned Lieutenant in Mass. 20th Regiment, July 10th, 1861; Captain, Nov. 1861; Major, March 1863; Lieut.-Colonel May 1863. On July 3rd, 1863, acting Col., his left hand was shattered and amputated. This was at Gettysburg. In the battle of the Wilderness, was shot through both legs and carried from the field. Returned to duty as the troops were going into action at Deep Bottom, in command of a brigade. In five hours from the time of reporting for duty, his horse was shot and fell upon him. This wound was doubtless, indirectly, the cause of his death. His commission as Brevet-Brigadier-General, dated Aug., 1864. In the spring of 1865 he was made Provost-Marshal-General of the Army of the Potomac, and assumed command of a brigade of five regiments of regulars and two regiments of cavalry, and held this position through the closing scenes of the war. He was commissioned Brevet-Major-General, to date from April 9th, 1865, the date of Lee's surrender. |

Born in Newport, R. I., Oct. 3rd, 1802. Came to Nantucket about 1811. Married Eliza, daughter of Capt. Reuben Baxter, in 1827. She "passed on" in March, 1889; he in April, 1894. Although not "to the manner born," Nantucket had no son more closely identified with everything pertaining to her interests. He used heart, brain, pen, tongue and means in her service, serving in both branches of the State Legislature, as Presidential Elector, and in all the principal town offices, at one time in six. He was active on the School Committee for twenty-five years. His mental and physical vigor were remarkably sustained, and he enjoyed life until within a few days of its close. |
